PHILIP L. HOUCK DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Gettysburg Resident Dies Suddenly at his Home. Recognized for his Interest in Religious and Civic Movements.

Philip Long Houck died this morning about 8.30 o'clock at his home on York street from the effects of heart disease which had threatened his life frequently during the past few months. He was aged 76 years, 11 months and 15 days.

Mr. Houck was taken ill some months ago but recovered to a great extent and continued taking a great interest in the many causes with which he was directly or indirectly identified. He was known as a man thoroughly in harmony with every movement which was for the uplift of the community and his entire life was centered about such activities.

The completion of the new St. James church was the source of the greatest joy both to Mr. Houck and to his wife and together they attended all the services of dedication this week, contributing most generously to defraying the debt incurred in making the improvements. Thursday evening he was at the prayer meeting service and had risen to offer prayer when he was seen to waver a little and Mrs. Houck, realizing at once that he was becoming ill put her arm about him and took care of the sick man until others came to his aid.

Mr. Houck was taken home and regained consciousness. During Thursday night he suffered several very severe attacks but rallied and on Friday showed his usual cheerfulness and fortitude, saying that he was feeling very well. This morning he seemed to be getting along right well and as he lay in bed talked while Mrs. Houck was busy in the room. Sometime between eight and nine o'clock he was suddenly seized with another attack, however, and died in a few moments though retaining consciousness up until a few moments of the end.

Mr. Houck was born in Butler township on October 6, 1835 and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Houck. On June 25, 1868 he was married to Miss Katie Group by Rev. M. Snyder, pastor of the Lutheran church at Arentsville. Though Mr. and Mrs. Houck never had any children of their own, they had at various times since their marriage twelve children whom they took to rear. Of these almost all stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Houck until they grew to young manhood or young womanhood, receiving training in the staunch principles which their foster parents themselves practiced. At one time there were six of these children in the Houck home and each of the twelve had a parent living during part or all of the time they lived with Mr. and Mrs. Houck. Only two of these children are now dead and the other ten live to pay a tribute to the love and devotion of a couple whose care contributed much to their success in life.

Some time after the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Houck they moved to Huntington township where they resided for some years, later moving to Straban township near Gettysburg where Mr. Houck continued farming and also engaged in the dairy business. Between five and six years ago they came to town and for the past year and a half have been living in their attractive home on York street.

Mr. Houck's interest in the affairs of the day led him to take a keen interest in politics and he served one term in the state legislature, having been elected by the Republican party. He was frequently a candidate on the Prohibition ticket for various offices. He was a veteran of the Civil War, enlisting at the start of the war, being out of service for some time on account of a wound and later re-enlisting and remaining in service until the close of the war when he was mustered out as a second lieutenant. As a member of Corporal Skelly Post 9, G. A. R. he was interested and enthusiastic for everything that was for the betterment of the cause. He was a patriot in war and just as much of a patriot in peace in contending for what he deemed was for the right.

Mr. Houck leaves his wife and two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Markley, of York Springs, and Mrs. John Zinn, of East Middle street.

FIRST MEETING OF THE WINTER

Parent Teachers Meeting Held on Friday Evening. Addresses Made by Prof. Sanders and Wm. Arch McClean.

The first meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association for this school year was held on Friday evening in the High School building.

Prof. Charles F. Sanders gave a talk on "Co-operation," emphasizing the necessity of a close relation between the patrons of the schools and the teachers if the greatest success is to be accomplished. Wm. Arch McClean gave a talk in which he emphasized the advisability of having the pupils familiarize themselves with local practical things. He also stated that they could be aided if the directors would place in each school room a map of Adams County, a plan of Gettysburg, and of the battlefield.

The reports of various committees were heard when the business of the evening was taken up. Miss Cope, chairman of the committee appointed to solicit funds for the manual training department, reported that $150.75 had been collected—sufficient to warrant the establishment of the course—but that more is needed.

Among the numbers on the entertainment portion of the program were piano solos by William Troxell and Miss Frances Fritchey.

NEW STAMP TO BE ISSUED

Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved the design for a new two-cent stamp which is to commemorate the Panama Pacific International Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915.

It is about an inch wide and an inch and a quarter long. It bears an engraving representing the Gatun lock of the Panama Canal, showing a steamship emerging from the Northern lock and another vessel being raised in the Southern lock. In the middle distance is a group of palm trees and in the background rise the hills of the Isthmus.

Across the top are the words "U. S. Postage" and directly below these the line, "San Francisco, 1915." In each lower corner is an olive branch, typifying peace; and balancing it, on the right, is a palm branch.

No color has been selected for the stamp. The first issue will be on sale in a few weeks.

MADE TRIP WITH GOAT TEAM

George Moore, of near Cedar Ridge, Mt. Pleasant township is a father who believes in his children enjoying themselves, and for their amusement some time ago purchased for them an entire goat team, consisting of two goats, wagons and harness. The children drive their teams often to surrounding towns. Wednesday, George Jr., and sister, Ethel, started from their home in the morning, drove to McSherrystown, from there to New Oxford and thence home, in all a distance of at least 15 miles, and the unusual sight of a goat team passing over the country roads attracted considerable attention along the route.

MR. AVERY'S STALLION WINS

A heavy track spoiled the racing at the Hanover Fair on Thursday. There were three events, only one of which was finished. F. C. Avery driving "Asa Danforth" took first position in three straight heats in the 2.12 pace. Applause greeted the bearded veteran as he crossed the wire each time. This was a hotly contested event and marked by exciting finishes. The clever stallion paced like clock work and would doubtless have lowered the record had the track not been so slow.

SHORT CHANGE MEN WITH SHOW

Prairie Lillie and Nebraska Bill Employees Deprive York County Residents of Sums of Money. Some Recovered.

This is an account of how the Prairie Lillie and Nebraska Bill's Wild West show balanced an account that was $25 ahead, and Walter C. Kline, of York County, and cheaply gained some valuable experience.

Kline visited the show at York Haven last Monday, and flashed a big roll of bills as he approached the ticket seller.

"My friend," said the individual "I've more small change than I know what to do with and if you'll let me have a few of those big bills for some of it, I'll pass you into the show free." Kline readily obliged the showman. He did not count his money until Tuesday, but when he did he found that he was just $25 short.

Detective Cookes, in company with Kline, visited the show at Hanover, where it appeared Tuesday. The countryman had first appeared before Alderman Walter F. Owen and swore out a warrant against the unknown short change artist.

A crowd of cowboys, Indians and even Prairie Lillie surged about the York officer when Kline pointed out the ticket man and Cookes placed him under arrest. Finding that bluff would not work a polished individual called the detective to a side.

"It's a strange thing," he said, "but do you know, when we came to figure out our accounts, last night, we found that we were $25 ahead" and he turned over the money.

"Young man," he said sternly to Kline, "why didn't you come directly to us when you discovered the error and permit us to correct it?"

When Harry Ensminger heard how Walter C. Kline, a neighbor had been short changed out of $25 he realized what became of $14 which got away from him on circus day. He has put the case in the hands of Alderman Walter F. Owen, York, who with Detective Cookes, succeeded in having Kline's money restored, but as the show is now some distance away, Ensminger's case is not regarded as very hopeful.

The man took a pocketful of bank notes with him to the circus and as in the case of Kline, was admitted free after accommodating the ticket agent by turning over the bills in exchange for some small change. Though there was only $19 in Ensminger's roll the short changing was so skillfully done that he accepted $5 in currency with out hesitation as the total change for his money, and even when he noted his shortage did not know how the loss occurred until he read of Kline's case.

MARINE BAND

It is a decade since the Marine Band was heard as far west as the Rockies, it is twice as long since it was heard on the Pacific Coast. Its present tour is the greatest event in its history, and it will be many a year before "the powers that be" will again grant leave for the band to "swing around the circle" to such an extent. Hence a word to the wise is sufficient. The band is booked for the Hanover Opera House for Tuesday, September 24, matinee only.

FEAR AMBUSH OF U. S. MARINES

Washington Anxious Concerning Forces in Nicaragua.

GRANADA SCENE OF HORROR

Inhabitants Are Starving and Many Are Imprisoned and Tortured by the Rebels.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The failure of further dispatches to arrive from Nicaragua, coupled with the fact that the last news received from Admiral Southernland indicated that a battle between the American forces and the rebels was imminent, caused some anxiety at the state department.

The temper exhibited by Mena and his ally, Zeledon, former minister of war under Zelaya, has led to the belief that they persisted in the intention of forcing opposition to the progress of the Americans. In that case an engagement has taken place.

Officials in Washington expect to receive news that the American forces have been obliged to fight their way to Granada.

The necessity for the American American forces reaching Granada as soon as possible was emphasized in delayed dispatches which have reached the state department. These dispatches gave accounts of conditions in the rebel city worse than those which existed in the Congo or in the Putumayo rubber districts of Peru.

Minister Zeledon stated that he had received a letter from Pedro Rafael Cuadra, minister of finance, and one from his brother, Carlos Cuadra, the Nicaraguan member of the mixed claims commission, in which in the name of humanity they beg the American minister to send relief to Granada.

They state that they have learned that the members of their families left at Granada are being most cruelly persecuted by General Mena. This persecution, they declare, is solely due to the fact that they are connected with the present government of Nicaragua.

The wife of the finance minister, they assert, is being hunted by General Mena's men in order that she may be made a prisoner and tortured, as have been two of her brothers-in-law. These brothers, though they have held no public office, have been prisoners ever since the first day of Mena's revolt, and have been subjected to the most inhuman tortures.

They have been deprived of food for days at a time and have been only permitted to obtain it when exhausted for lack of nourishment by the payment of the most exorbitant sums to Mena. For five days consecutively they were confined in a tiny, filthy closet, for three days of which time they were allowed no food nor any water. When released from this confinement they were nearly dead. They also have been informed by Colonel Daniel Mena that if the government troops should attack Granada then the Cuadra brothers would be shot at once.

Food supplies have been confiscated by the rebels and the population has been kept in a state of practical imprisonment. Greatest anxiety is felt for the safety of the students at the French college for women in Granada. Most of the students are daughters of foreign residents of Nicaragua.

The trains which bore the American forces toward Granada are also loaded with food supplies to relieve the suffering in that city and in Mayaza, also held by the rebels under Zeledon.

REPORT BIG REBEL VICTORY

Entire Mexican Federal Command Said to Have Been Wiped Out.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 21.—It is reported that the entire command of federals under Colonel Obregon was wiped out by rebels in a battle at the San Jeolunnu ranch.

Those who were not killed are reported as taken prisoners by the rebels. The federal loss in the fight at the same place on Thursday was two killed and sixteen wounded. The rebel loss was much heavier, but no figures are available. In addition to the capture of a machine gun and eight prisoners from the rebels, Colonel Obregon captured 10 saddle horses.

U. S. Has Big Profit on Paper Money.

Washington, Sept. 21.—There are millions of dollars of currency outstanding, lost, destroyed or being preserved as souvenirs, which the federal government never will be called on to redeem, according to a compilation of figures by the register of the treasury. This indicates that the government makes a big profit on its issue of paper money.

HARVESTER STOCK OWNED BY THREE MEN

Perkins, McCormick and Deering Control Big Trust.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—The taking of testimony in the government's suit for the dissolution of the International Harvester company was postponed until Oct. 2.

Counsel for the defendants stated that one of the company's attorneys was ill and another was in California and that it was impossible to get new counsel familiar with the case.

After the Harvester company produced under subpoena the minutes of its stockholders' meeting from 1902, when the government charged the alleged trust was formed, until 1912, Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant attorney general, read a stipulation.

The stipulation said it was agreed that "during the period covered by the minutes, George W. Perkins, Cyrus H. McCormick and Charles Deering were joint owners of all the shares of the capital stock of the International Harvester company, excepting such few shares as were necessarily held by the other fifteen directors of the International Harvester company in order to qualify them under the laws of the state of New Jersey to be directors, no director holding for subscription purposes at any time more than one or two shares."

ELECTOR MUDDLE UP TO LEADERS

Left to Sub-Committee of Three to Untangle.

TO REPORT BY SEPT. 30

Wasson, Hitchcock and McNichol Named by Republican State Committee.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 21.—The Republican state committee, in special meeting, authorized a sub-committee of three, Henry G. Wasson, the state chairman, Andrew B. Hitchcock, secretary of the committee, and States Senator James P. McNichol, to attend to the details of the straightening out of the presidential elector tangle in Pennsylvania. McNichol was substituted for State Senator William H. Keyser, who declined to serve.

The sub-committee was instructed to report back its findings as to taking down Roosevelt electors and putting up Taft electors to the state committee by Sept. 30, or at an earlier date if possible. The state committee then adjourned.

State Senator McNichol, with Congressman William S. Vare and David Martin, register of wills, all of Philadelphia, had the state committee set for Sept. 30 or an "earlier date if possible" as the time for the sub-committee of three, consisting of the two Roosevelt men and one Taft man, to report back its findings to the state committee.

The resolution as originally offered by former State Senator John T. Murphy, of Philadelphia, did not set a date for the sub-committee to report its findings to the state committee.

Former State Senator Flinn, leader of the Roosevelt forces in Pennsylvania, had planned to have the state committee pass the Murphy resolution with a rush in its original form, but Senator McNichol's vigorous opposition led to the placing of a time limit upon the sub-committee to substitute Taft electors.

The adoption of the amended resolution was unanimous.

The only other business transacted by the state committee was the election of Andrew B. Hitchcock, of Tioza county, as secretary, and the voting of authority to Chairman Wasson to appoint a treasurer, who is yet to be named.

LEAPS FROM WINDOW; SHOT

Prisoner Escaping From Police Headquarters May Die.

New York, Sept. 21.—William McAneny, a prisoner, after having his finger prints taken at police headquarters, leaped from a window of that place.

In the thirty-foot plunge he knocked down a small boy as he landed and broke the boy's leg. Three policemen shot at McAneny as he fled, bringing him down with bullets in the body.

The prisoner was taken to the Gouverneur hospital, with three bullets in his body and is not expected to live. It was the most daring attempt to escape, with one exception, ever made from the new headquarters building.

McAneny was arrested in Harlem and taken to police headquarters. He was taken to the Bertillon room and his finger prints were recorded. He made no objection. As he passed a window he sprang to the sill and flung himself out to the street.

He landed in Grand street. Detective Edward Shevley leaped after him from the window, followed by Gus and Joseph Riley. They landed unhurt, and as they rose to their feet began to shoot at the fugitive.

One of the bullets hit another detective on his way to enter the building, but did not seriously hurt him. Three bullets hit the fleeing prisoner and he went down. The detectives pounced on him and brought him back to the headquarters building barely conscious.

Traveler Says That Aix-les-Bains in Southern France, Well Deserves This Distinction.

I have found the cleanest city in the world. Very properly, it is the world's oldest watering place, for water means cleanliness. It dates back over twenty centuries. It is a little city of not more than 8,000 inhabitants, though this number is quadrupled during the height of the summer season, when all the world pays tribute to the remarkable efficacy of its salubrious warm baths. For the worn out, overworked American these baths have a peculiar fascination. Year after year the visitors from the United States include men of affairs, many notable in financial, business and professional circles. It is surprising that the rush of overworked Americans to this famous health resort, which has been so long a favorite resting place for titled Europeans, is not much greater. I am writing of Aix-les-Bains, or, as it is commonly called, Aix, says John A. Schleicher in Leslie's.

Aix is in southern France, near the Swiss border. The snow capped peaks of the Swiss Alps, rising above and all around it, give to the clean little city a picturesqueness and a seclusion all its own. Two warm springs, gushing from the mountain at the rate of a million gallons daily, form the reason for the existence of Aix. These waters possess radio-activity, and their chemical elements, including chiefly sulphuretted hydrogen, render them most efficacious for gout, rheumatism and similar physical ills, the result of overwork, a sedentary life, lack of exercise and a too liberal diet.

The famous springs of Aix belong to the state. Its center of attraction is the bathing pavilion—a massive granite structure, with an imposing front and lofty wrought iron doors. It stands at the head of one of the principal streets and contains abundant accommodations for all the visitors, and the baths are of the greatest variety. The thermal waters are used only externally. The peculiarity of the bath at Aix is that it combines the douche with massage. I know of no other resort that gives anything exclusively of this kind, and no other springs, I am told, have the same chemical and radio activities that have made the water of Aix so efficacious for over twenty centuries, or since 125 years before the Christian era.

The Ragpicker Bird.

The trumpeter bird is the ragpicker of the woods and swamps of Guiana, where he is always at work at his trade, with his stomach for a pack and his bill for a book. He performs a useful but most extraordinary service, devouring a perfect multitude of snakes, frogs, scorpions, spiders, lizards, and the like creatures. But this terrible bird can be made perfectly tame. On the Guiana plantations he may be seen fraternizing with the ducks and turkeys, accompanying them in their walks, defending them from their enemies, separating quarrelers with the strokes of his bill, sustaining the young and the feeble and waking the echoes with his trumpet while he brings home his flocks at night. The trumpeter is as handsome as he is useful. Noble and haughty in aspect, he raises himself up on his long, yellow gaitered legs and seems to say, "I am the trumpeter, the scourge of the reptile, and the protector of the flocks."

BOOTLEGGERS KILL TWO U. S. MARSHALS

Two Other Government Officials Mortally Wounded.

Coffeyville, Kan., Sept. 21. — Two United States marshals were killed and two probably fatally injured in an ambush by bootleggers.

The officers, in an automobile, were patrolling the roads over which the liquor is illegally carried. After firing on the officers the assassins dumped the dead and dying men out of the machine into the road and escaped in the stolen machine.

A posse pursued the men into the Osage mountains, where a capture is almost impossible. The dead men are L. L. Bowman, United States marshal, of Tulsa, Okla., and Fred Mehring, United States marshal, of Dewey, Okla.

40 FOLLOW NOGI IN SUICIDE

Japanese Men and Women Follow Hero and His Wife in Death.

Tokio, Sept. 21. — An epidemic of suicide which is causing alarm to the authorities has followed the self-destruction of General Nogi and his wife.

From police reports it is learned that more than forty Japanese men and women have killed themselves. In more than one instance parents have immolated young children to the memory of the departed warrior.

Many of the self-slain resorted to the old samurai method of hara-kari, but some have taken poison and others have shot themselves.

A military guard will be kept over General Nogi's tomb to prevent soldiers of his command from killing themselves at the foot of his grave.

Part of Main Street of Nanticoke Borough Drops Ten Feet.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 21. — Part of Nanticoke borough's main street was dropped into the mines.

Depressions ten feet in depth were made in the brick pavement and several openings lead directly into the mines.

The cave-in took place shortly before noon. Persons on the street were frightened by peculiar rumblings, and their fear grew to general alarm when the pavement began to disappear.

The cave-in spread over a distance of fifty yards and in about two hours the disturbances subsided.

The town is undermined by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western company.

MAYBE JACK TARS FOR TEN DAYS

Government Wants Landsmen For Naval Review.

TO CRUISE ON BATTLESHIP

Will Be Allowed to Become Bona Fide Members of the Crew Without Enlisting.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21. — A chance to be a real sailor in the United States navy and participate in the big naval review at New York, with the privilege of leaving the service at the end of ten days, is offered to young Pennsylvanians by the government.

Those who are members of, or who have served in the naval reserve, are preferred. A cruise on the battleship Iowa, now at League Island, will be part of the fun for all who accept the government's offer.

For the first time in the history of the Philadelphia navy yard, and probably the first time in the history of the navy, will citizens be allowed to become bona fide members of the crew of a battleship without enlisting for a term of years.

Several unusual circumstances have brought this about. The main one is the fact that the Iowa at present has only a skeleton crew and must have more men to get to New York. Virtually all of the great ships now at the Philadelphia navy yard will participate in the review, which will be held in New York harbor from Oct. 15 to 17.

Should the ten-day jack tar desire to remain in the service he will be allowed to do so. If he does not care for more than ten days of sailor life he may leave the ship at the end of that period. During the cruise the embryo sailor will be accorded all the privileges of a regular member of the crew. This includes plum duff.

A circular letter has been sent to the members of the Pennsylvania "navy" by the navy department informing them of the opportunity. The circular says that all who enlist for the ten day period will be allowed subsistence. To those who merely desire to make the cruise and aid the crew an invitation is extended to join, on the condition that they pay for their own mess. The charge for food will be 37 cents a day. This will be the only expense, as hammocks and other privileges will be given free of charge.

At League Island preparations for the review are being rushed. All the big ships are being painted, cleaned and coaled. Among the crews there is keen competition, as each desires that his own ship make the best showing. Even the little torpedo boat destroyers, with their small crews, are striving to outdo the great battleships such as the Arkansas, Iowa and Vermont.

There is much sorrow among some of the enlisted men at the navy yard, while others are chuckling with glee. It has just been discovered that the so-called near beer which they have been enjoying so much of late is really real beer. The enlisted men always suspected it was too good to be only an imitation, but those in charge of the post exchange were sure it was only a sort of "tonic." However, its day is over, for Colonel Lucas, who is in charge of the barracks has placed a taboo on it and countermanded the order for a new supply.

BURNS EVIDENCE FAILS

Jury at Johnstown, Pa., Fails to Convict Accused Commissioner.

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 21. — The jury in the case of Deputy Commissioner T. Stanton Davis, charged with graft in the selection of plans for the proposed new county insane asylum, returned a verdict finding Davis not guilty, but ordering him to pay the costs.

A Burns detective, who posed as an architect, and a dictagraph figured largely in the case.

Fail to Indict Lynchers.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 21. — After being in session five days and examining 150 witnesses, the special grand jury at Princeton, Va., investigating the lynching of Robert Johnson, colored, charged with assaulting a young woman in Bluefield, adjourned without returning an indictment. The investigation, it is said, will be resumed in October at the regular term of criminal court.

Boy Killed by Farm Wagon.

Camden, N. J., Sept. 21. — Richard Gale, five years old, riding on a "push mobile," coasted around a corner and off the sidewalk under a heavily loaded farm wagon at Tenth and Market streets. The wheels passed over his stomach, killing him instantly. Charles Heinrich, the farmer driving the truck, was exonerated by the coroner.

Rains Snails in Pennsylvania Town.
Washington, Pa., Sept. 21. — During drizzling rainstorm some thousands of snails both hard and soft-shelled, appeared on the street. They crawled on the size of crust to that of a shov and for awhile it was practically impossible to walk along the streets for them.

GOVERNOR SEEKS WAY TO KILL RACE TRACK

Asks Advice on Stopping Havre de Grace Meet.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21. — Determined, if possible, to rid the state of the odium which attaches to the racing meet now going on at Havre de Grace, Governor Goldsborough had a long conference with Attorney General Poe.

He asked Mr. Poe for an opinion as to the constitutionality and general validity of the act under which the meet is being held, but also for advice as to whether any power exists which he can correct reported abuses.

The governor called on Secretary of State Robert P. Graham and later went to the attorney general's office. When he returned to his office he said he would wait until he hears from Mr. Poe before making any further statements.

It is probable that the attorney general's opinion will be presented to the governor in a day or two. The present race meeting at Havre de Grace will close in about a week.

Mr. Poe said that, assuming the law is the one the legislature intended to pass, and its provisions have been complied with, there does not appear to be any way in which the Havre de Grace meeting can be stopped except by the Harford county racing commission.

The commission has the power to prescribe rules and regulations for bookmaking and betting and to revoke the racing license.

Some persons believe the provisions of the law, which allows the commissions named in the bill to name their successors is unconstitutional, and it is understood the governor has requested Mr. Poe to look particularly into this feature.

HOLDING SCHOOL IN YARDS

Philadelphia School Houses Can't Accommodate All the Pupils.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21. — So serious has become the congestion in the public schools here that many principals were compelled to hold classes in the school yards.

In several instances tents were raised to accommodate the pupils. More than 5000 children have been refused admission because of the lack of room, and 14,583 children are on part time.

THE TERROR IN THE SNOW

"According to your promise," I reminded him.

"It is a case of unusual interest," he said. "Though it bears a certain similarity to the Gottstein trial at Kiel in '89."

He paused to light his big pipe, and then sat back in his chair, with his eyes fixed in abstract contemplation.

"I was convinced that the murderer was in the house; and that he had entered by the side door, towards which you had seen him pass. When studying the spot I made a discovery of some importance. Steen had left by the same exit. Also he had reason to fear some person in that wing, for he had turned from the path and made a circuit over the grass. I had already noted his broad-toed boots when examining his body—and the foot-prints in the snow were unmistakable. Who was his enemy in that wing? It was a problem to be solved."

"I discovered no stained clothing, and no signs of its cleansing or destruction. From what information I could gather, all the house party had been in the roulette-room save you yourself; and all the servants had been at the dance save Henderson and a man waiting on the guests. But in the course of my search the footman who accompanied me discovered that a quantity of gold plate was missing. It was reasonable to imagine that Henderson was the thief. Probably the confidential valet had learnt of the Baron's projected flight and of the warrant for his arrest. It was a moment for judicious robbery, the traces of which would be covered by the confusion of the news. But was Henderson also a murderer? I did not think so. The death of his master was the one thing which would wreck his scheme. In the early morning I interviewed the farmer on whose car he had driven into Norbridge. He told me that, acting on orders he had received from Henderson, he met that person at the corner of the stables at eleven o'clock precisely—five minutes before the murder occurred. That finally eliminated the valet from the list."

"On my return from the farm I examined the gardens again with great minuteness. At the corner of the little pavilion, about fifteen feet from where the body had lain, there was a patch of bloody snow. This puzzled me a good deal, until the solution offered itself that the murderer had tried to wash his hands in the snow, the water of the pond being frozen hard. Yet his clothing would also bear the stain. What had he worn that showed so white to you in the starlight? Could it have been that he wore no clothes at all?"

"A naked man! The suggestion was full of possibilities."

"It was fortunate that I had brought assistants to help me in Steen's capture. Their presence gave me a wider scope, for they were both good men. I left them to search the pavilion and launders for the clothing, which the murderer might have concealed when he realized how fatal was its evidence. As I walked back to the house I began to understand the situation more clearly. The main drive, curving down the slope of the park, was in view of a tall man coming up by the yew walk. The murderer might have noticed our approach. What more natural than that he should have bent double as he ran, thus obtaining the cover of the left-hand hedge, which was not more than four to five feet high? Did not this answer to your description of the thing you had seen? It would have been cold work for him. I made a note to be on the look-out for chills."

"For a couple of hours I devoted myself to speeding those guests who caught the eleven-thirty train. I do not think a trunk left for the station of which I have not a complete inventory. Indeed, the baron's creditors have to thank me for the return of several trifles of value, which were included, accidentally, no doubt, in the ladies' dressing-bags."

"After the carriages had started I went in search of Terry, and discovered that he had not left his room. Equally to the point, his windows looked down upon the spot where the baron made his detour over the grass while escaping. I became interested in this young man. The score was creeping up against him. A ladder from an obliging gardener allowed me to observe him from the window. A visit to the housekeeper gave me a duplicate key to his door. What happened in the room you know, Mr. Phillips."

"But, the motive—why did he kill his patron?" I asked him eagerly.

"I doubt if we shall ever learn the truth on that point," he said. "As far as I can make out, Steen was directly responsible for the ruin and disgrace of Terry's father. Probably the son did not fully realize this when the baron, with a pity most unusual in the man, gave him the secretaryship. But of all participation in the flight he was certainly innocent, for he was in bed at the time."

"In bed!" I cried.

"Don't interrupt, if you please. What happened I take to be as follows: Terry was in bed when the old man tried to creep past his window. Somehow he heard him, and, looking out, understood what was up. Perhaps that rascal Henderson had told him the truth about his father; perhaps Steen had promised him compensation—he had a mother and sister dependent on him—which promise the financier meant to avoid, along with many more serious obligations, by running away. At any rate, passion, revenge, the sense of injustice—call it what you like—took hold of the lad. He caught up the first handy weapon; it chanced to be a dagger paper-knife—dangerous things, I hate them—and rushed down a back staircase and through the side door in pursuit of his enemy."

"When that had happened, which happened, the fear that comes to all amateurs in crime took him by the throat. He wiped his hands in the snow; he tore off his sleeping suit—that is how I know he had been in bed—and thrust it, with its terrible evidences of murder, into the thatch of the little pavilion. We found it there a day later. Then he started back to the house as naked as a baby. "He saw us running down the hill, and made for the side door, bending double behind the hedge. Who were we? Had we noticed him? Believe me, Mr. Phillips, whether he had held the murder righteous or no, it was only the rope he saw dangling before him. Might not the alarm be given at any moment? He dared not wash himself, and the stains had dried upon him. He hurried on his clothes, shivering in the chill that had struck home, and so to the safest place he could find—the roulette-table."

"It is well that he died," I said simply.

"It saved the law some trouble," remarked the inspector, with a grim little nod at the wall.
